

PERMACULTURE

a Rhymer's Manual

LIMITS

PRINCIPLE 4: APPLY SELF-REGULATION & ACCEPT FEEDBACK

Ukulele
Chords:

Lyrics & music by Charlie Jones. 2012.

Hi, I'm your planet,
You might know me from such places as the one you inhabit I'm the air you breathe and the land on which standing, the food that you eat But I'm getting a little bit dark on some of the ways you treat me.

See I give you Everything you need yet still you want more You're falling over yourselves with greed,
It is time I remind you to exercise restraint because if there's one thing you should know it's infinite, I aint.

You'd better L.I.M.I.T
What you take from me.
Get to know the deal with my L.I.M.I.T

You've been having a field day on my skin, cutting it up, burrowing in,
but I'm reaching for my skin lotion to take away the pain Better start to regulate your lifestyles of excess Cos I'm picking up my telephone and dialing up the pest control guy

Get your L.I.M.I.T on Im gonna count to three Cos I've had it up to here So get your L.I.M.I.T on

'Cos I've got limits
and I'm not afraid to use them
With your bad habits, you do nothing but abuse them.
I've got limits
and I'm not afraid to use them
If you keep going all your privileges, you'll lose them

It's time to check yourself and stop pointing fingers out, Because self-responsibility is what it's all about.
Stop relying on the top,
cos it starts here on the ground Just get back to your gardens people, stop fooling around.

Get back, get back... to your garden

'Cos I've got limits
And I'm not afraid to use them
Harsh consequences, well I'm about to introduce them
I've got limits
And I'm not afraid to use them
Are you gonna listen now?
The future's yours for the choosing